Websites

Static Websites

Static web pages are often HTML documents stored as files in the file system and made available by the web server over HTTP (nevertheless URLs ending with ".html" are not always static). However, loose interpretations of the term could include web pages stored in a database, and could even include pages formatted using a template and served through an application server, as long as the page served is unchanging and presented essentially as stored.

- Provide improved security over dynamic websites (dynamic websites are at risk to web shell attacks if a vulnerability is present)
- Fewer or no dependencies on systems such as databases or other application servers
- Cost savings from utilizing cloud storage, as opposed to a hosted environment

Websites

Dynamic Websites

Dynamic website designing required advanced and more complicated coding than static websites designing. The layout of the pages and the content of the web pages are created separately. All the content is stored in a database. Words, numbers, and images are stored as unique elements in the database and put together to be displayed on a page only if asked. This allows you to provide individual information to the user and let them personalize the content according to their preferences.

Dynamic website designing helps you to add, edit, delete or modify your own content.

Dynamic web development keeps your regular visitors coming back for a second look

The Biggest advantage of Dynamic website designing in India is that it is very economical
